Project Description:

The Arkansas Archeological Survey is inventorying and digitizing its holdings across all stations and Coordinating Office, developing new ways to integrate heritage information including site registries, project information, and collections records to better serve rightsholders, stakeholders, and the public interest. As part of this initiative we wish to acknowledge that we hold culturally sensitive collections or collections embodying traditional knowledge, biocultural information (especially regarding ancient cultigens domesticated in the region) and for which we have incomplete knowledge and attribution.
